

Baltic Association of Korean Studies

E-mail: baks1conference@gmail.com

Call for Papers

THE SECOND ONLINE CONFERENCE OF THE BALTIC
ASSOCIATION OF KOREAN STUDIES

Belief in the Future: Spiritual Context of Baltic Korean Studies

25-27 November 2020

University of Latvia (LU), Riga, Latvia

The world of today presents many common aspects in the lives of geographically and historically diverse Baltic and Korean nations. Exploring the different experiences in similar circumstances provides good grounds for comparison of the two parts of the world in many educationally relevant areas. This leads to an assumption that although we have different faiths, religious practices, rituals and traditions we all have common hopes for the future...

Scholars from such research areas as history, economics, finance, politics, world health and security building are invited to focus on the issues of faith, religion and philosophy related values and practices in the Korean culture and Korean studies.

The Second Online Conference of the Baltic Association of Korean Studies seeks to provide a platform for the researchers in the above areas to share their advanced insights into the Korean studies and in the relevance of faith for the advancement of their research.

The organisers welcome papers of researchers in broad areas of Humanities and Social Sciences.

The conference will provide a special session for graduate student presentations.

Conference dates: 25-27 November 2020

Abstract submission: 20 November 2020

Notification of acceptance: 22 November 2020

Final paper submission: 18 January 2021

Conference platform:

Registration:

Submission of abstracts and full papers:

All scholars willing to present a paper at the Second Conference of the Baltic Association of Korean Studies are requested to submit the application form with abstract (maximum 1000 characters with spaces including key words) by November 20, 2020. Notification of acceptance will be sent by November 22, 2020. The final paper (15 000 characters) should be submitted by January 18, 2021.

Selected conference papers will be published in a dedicated volume of Religious-Philosophical Articles (Reliģiski-filozofiski raksti) ISSN 1407-1908: a double-blind peer-reviewed periodical with an international editorial board. Editions of Religious-Philosophical Articles are available in Central and Eastern European Online Library, CEEOL, as well as in EBSCO and SCOPUS databases. Other conference publications will appear in Societal Studies ISSN 2029-2236 (print) ISSN 2029-2244 (online).

The working language of the Conference is English.

Please send your papers and all inquiries to the conference address:

baks1conference@gmail.com

Organizing Committee:

Prof. Dr. Jānis Priede (Director of Department of Asian Studies, University of Latvia)
Assoc. Prof. Dr. Lora Tamošiūnienė (BAKS President, Mykolas Romeris University)
Prof. Dr. Kaspars Kļaviņš (Project Director, Centre of Korean Studies, University of Latvia)

Prof. Dr. Maija Kūle (Director, Institute of Philosophy and Sociology, University of Latvia)

PhD Seo Jinseok (Honorary member of BAKS)

Dr. Linas Didvalis (Head of the Centre for Asian Studies, Vytautas Magnus University, Vice-President BAKS)

Dr. Māris Kūlis (Researcher, Institute of Philosophy and Sociology, University of Latvia)

Ildze Šķestere (Teacher, Centre of Korean Studies. University of Latvia)

Conference coordinator:

Ildze Šķestere (the main contact person): baks1conference@gmail.com

This conference was supported by the Seed Program for Korean Studies through the Ministry of Education of the Republic of Korea and the Korean Studies Promotion Service of the Academy of Korean Studies (AKS-2018-INC-2230004).